INTRODUCTION

In homoeopathy every individual case is a different one than the other may be of same disease and a similar or same disease needs a different medicine to cure. Dr.Kents in his lecture on homoeopathic philosophy and aporism(118) writes-“Each medicine produces particular effects in the body of man,and no other medicinal substance can creat any that are precisely similar.”There is one remedy that is needed wheather it is known or not, it is needed in a case, it has no substitute.

Selection of potency for an individual case of disease depends on various factors. Dr.Dunhum says higher potency were also effective. Dr E. Harris Ruddock some stipulated potencies mostly very low especially for children. Dr Kent always advocated using higher potency.

Every one is doing only in arbitrary method and as soon as one single result is founng with a potency of a drug in one case, he advices to apply the drug with that potency in all other cases

I found that Dr. C. Herings book was never mentioned any potency He writes “A cured symptoms only has never such an intrinsic value as one produced and cured and yet, such one should not be ignored, in course of time it may added to the characteristics. Of course all characteristics will be found here and many other symptoms produced and cured which further experience may warrant us in making up in degree until they attain the grade we denominate characteristics”.

I have done is that the main symptoms of the medicine were verified directly on clinical trials first and thereafter a comparative study has been made out with rest of the symptoms by further trials. Thus one by one drugs were listed out and their most suitable potences find outline each particular symptoms or disease. The trials were not limited within the number of symptoms produced by proving and not limited within the known homoeopathic drugs, some Indian origine ayurvedic drugs which proved in homoeopathy included for no bias.

The trials started on various ways. Trying medicines havings similar symptoms in there different potencies on a particular symptoms. The effects of different potencies of the same drug were observed on each symptom. The effects of varying repetition of same potency has also been tried. The effect of two or more medicines mixed has also together been used. Triturations have been used in various quantities. These drugs used

- Directly on tongue
- Drops with sugar of milk
- Inhalation of potencies
- by rubbing on skin

One disease or symptoms group are selected on about 100 cases. All probable medicine according to the material medica which have got this disease mentioned in them were found out and selected for trials. Than each case was separately taken up for totality of symptoms. But ultimately the chief symptoms or the main disease was taken as the guide line. Than one medicine in one potency was tried for all the cases. Then another potency of the tried for all cases. It was observed that a particular potency respond maximum for a particular disease in particular stage, when potency after potency are tried. Then next medicine in potency after potency for that medicine for that medicine for the disease or symptoms was found out. In this way there came up all the few drugs with “a selected potency in a disease.”

Than the study made out further that all these drugs only with those particular potency for particular disease. Statical analysis are done with effectiveness or power of healing of each drug in selected potency in that disease.

Response In Percentage Of Some Drugs In Selected Potencies On Piles Symptoms

Name of medicine	Pail of	Bunch of	Bleeding	Non bleeding	Intestinal
Sulphur 200	10	15	30	70	50
Nitric acid 30	70	10	10	5	10
Hamamelis 200	5	15	70	5	2
Aesculus 200	50	70	60	50	50
Ratanhia 200	80	10	30	30	10
Lachesis 200	10	20	30	10	5
Aconite 200	2	1	5	nil	Nil

CONCLUSION

In this study it is seen after repeated trials that all symptoms are not curable by all potencies of a drug. It has been found that particular potency can cure some particular symptoms and other particular potency cure some other particular symptoms further observed that the list of symptoms curable by a particular potency contains some symptoms which respond in almost every case i.e a very high percentage of success is there. Other symptoms have very weak or small percentage of response and some other almost negligible.
